From Ancient Times to Modern Day

Over the past 30 years numerous studies and detailed scientific analysis have revealed that Cordyceps dramatically increases our bodies’ utilization of Oxygen – the eighth and most important for our body’s overall health. Clearly, this has far reaching implications. Unfortunately with rising demand the quality, consistency, and availability of wild supplies have generated significant concerns over the price and quality of wild sources. In addition, many of the beneficial properties of Cordyceps exist as rather small trace amounts in wild Cordyceps thus requiring even more regular intake of the supplements in order to obtain the necessary quantity of nutrients. It was from these circumstances that Earthpulse’s Eighth Element™ was born. Eighth Element™ Cordyceps has been hybridized and engineered in a laboratory environment to increase potency, ensure consistency, and deliver a unique broad-spectrum formulation unlike any other available in the world.

How Eighth Element Improves Overall Health

Eighth Element™ can dramatically increase cellular energy and oxygen absorption in the body. When the body receives more cellular energy, it has the means by which to operate in a more efficient and effective manner. Numerous studies have shown a number of key benefits. Some of the highlights include:

- Increase in cellular energy by up to 28%
- HDL (good cholesterol) increases of up to 27%
- Overall decreases in total cholesterol of up to 17%
- Powerful antioxidant effects
- Increased stamina, endurance, and recovery

Further, animal studies have shown:

- Significant increases in life-span
- Enhancement of memory and learning
- Support toward fighting cancers and tumor activity
- Improvements in glucose metabolism

When pregnant or nursing please consult a qualified healthcare professional before use.
